AUSTRIAN SITUATION GROWS VERY GRAVE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—German diplomacy today is seeking a way to aid Austria and settle the Ancona dispute. It is understood that an attempt will be made to satisfy the United States without making concessions which might disrupt the Austrian naval forces.

Washington officials declare that there can be no concessions which will throw the dispute into a prolonged diplomatic tangle. The principles involved will not be arbitrated. The United States will insist upon a disavowal of the sinking of the Ancona, punishment of the submarine commander responsible, and indemnity for all Americans lost on the vessel. If these demands are not met, the diplomatic relations between the two countries will be severed.

32 RESCUED FROM SINKING YASAKA

A cablegram from Consul Bristow at Port Said states that one-hundred-and-twenty passengers and one-hundred-and-sixty-two crew were rescued from the Yasaka by a French liner and brought into Port Said. The Yasaka sunk twenty-nine minutes after it was torpedoed. The nationality of the submarine still remains a mystery.

Among the passengers aboard was W. J. Leigh, an American.

STOLE A FORD—TOOK POISON.

ORLANDO, Dec. 27.—A young man giving the name of Philips was brought from Jacksonville charged with stealing a Ford from the City Clerk here. Last night he attempted to commit suicide by taking blue ointment of iodine and mercury. Although his condition is serious there is a possibility of his recovery.

FRENCH NAVAL ACTION.

PARIS, Dec. 27.—An official statement announced that a French cruiser bombarded the North African coast on the Gulf of Sollum, destroying a Turkish battery. It is also stated that a French trawler repulsed a submarine attack with long range guns in the same gulf.

THE DAILY NEWS HAS IN THE PAST;
DOES AT THE PRESENT, AND WILL CONTINUE TO ADVOCATE A MANAGER
FORM OF MUNICIPAL CHARTER

In a futile effort to have the "pet" charter upon which the people of Daytona will vote January 4 ratified, the assertion has been repeatedly made that the Daily News and the Gazette News is urging the voters to reject this charter and provide for a commission-manager form (as may be done under the Farris law) in purely bad faith; the further assertion has been made that the Daily News and the Gazette News wants no change from the present form of city government. These assertions have evidently been made in the hope that voters who see the many flaws in the charter to be submitted on January 4 will vote for it anyhow, rather than risk having no further proposals for commission charter. The Daily News and the Gazette News has for years favored a commission form of charter; it does now and will continue to do so in the future. But the Daily News and the Gazette News believes it to be for the best interests of the welfare of Daytona to have a commission-manager form. The charter commissioners to be elected at the election to be held February 9 will prepare a commission charter and unquestionably a commission-manager charter; the commissioners to be elected at that election will be elected by the people; they will be the people's commissioners; the Daily News and the Gazette News will support the charter that board of commissioners prepare—this is a strong statement, but just so certain as five men elected by the people for the purpose prepare and submit a charter, just so certain is that charter pretty apt to be a good one. THE DAILY NEWS AND THE GAZETTE-NEWS WILL PERSISTENTLY, CONSISTENTLY AND HONESTLY ADVOCATE THE ELECTION OF FIVE CHARTER COMMISSIONERS ON FEBRUARY 9, AND WHEN THEY ARE ELECTED AND HAVE PREPARED A CHARTER THE DAILY NEWS AND THE GAZETTE-NEWS WILL JUST AS PERSISTENTLY, CONSISTENTLY AND HONESTLY ADVOCATE THE ADOPTION OF THE CHARTER SO PREPARED.

THOUSANDS STARVING WHILE SUPPLIES ROT

ROME, Dec. 27.—Pestilence, famine and anarchy reign in Albania. Thousands of men, women and children are starving while American relief supplies are rotting aboard the ships which are unable to land because of the lawless elements pillaging the country.

FRENCH ARTILLERY ENGAGEMENT.

PARIS, Dec. 27.—Officially, there was nothing to report during the night, except in Lorraine where the French artillery fiercely bombarded the enemy in the region of Bioncourt, Gremacy, southwest of the Chateau Salina.

HURRICANE SWEEPS NEW ENGLAND COAST

BOSTON, Dec. 27.—Four lives were lost in New England during the hurricane which lashed the coast on Sunday. The storm tied up shipping, wrecked wire systems, paralyzed transportation and caused enormous property damage. A big roller-coaster was demolished at Revere Beach. It is said the gale blew eighty miles an hour. The British schooner Mayflower, was wrecked off Rockport but the crew was saved.

TURKS REPULSED.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The Turks have begun a new offensive in Mesopotamia. They attacked the British positions at Kuth El Amara on the Tigris river, but were repulsed with heavy loss.

COLONIAL SENTIMENT TO CHANGE.

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—A rapid increase of revolutionary sentiment in England's colonial possessions—particularly Egypt and India—is predicted as a result of the collapse of the Allies' campaign on Gallipoli Peninsula. The Allies' hope of forcing their way to Constantinople and dominating the Moslem influence in now gone.

TORPEDOED WITHOUT WARNING.

THE WAR MAP HAS CHANGED IN THE YEAR 1915.

TEUTON GAINS AND LOSSES IN 1915.

The shaded area shows the territory greater than that of Germany, which the Teutons and their allies have gained since January 1, 1915. The principal accretions are in Russia, Austria-Hungary and Serbia. There are slight gains just north of Ypres in the west and slight losses east of Rheims and on two sections of the Austrian boundary.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—In the year 1915 the Teutonic arms have conquered a greater territory than Germany.

The Kaiser and his allies have over the rich industrial and farming provinces of Poland, Lithuania and the Baltic Provinces; have wrested Galicia and Bukovina from their enemies; have crushed Serbia; have stood off opposing armies on Gallipoli, the Dardanelles and the great siege line between France and a corner in Belgium; have hurled back reeling the British Indian invaders of Mesopotamia.

On the other hand, the solidarity and resolution of the entente allies has been as strong as ever; the British navy retains absolute control of the seas; and though undoubtedly for the present victorious, Germany is facing a serious food famine which fills her newspapers with such peace talk as is practically unknown among her opponents.

The first important military operation of the year was the second German victory of the Mazurian Lakes. When the year opened, the Muscovites stood far within the east Prussian border, while holding all but the salient of Poland and pressing through the passes of the Carpathians after overrunning Galicia and most of Bukovina.

In mid-February, breasting their way through deep snows, the marvelous mobile troops of the "grand old man of the lakes," Field Marshal von Hindenburg, encircled the Russian army of east Prussia, much as they had done near the same spot several months before. Again the Russians, fighting fully what was going on, were unable to show the celerity in movement necessary to check the German concentration. Only shattered remnants reached Poland; on February 22 the Germans announced more than 100,000 of their enemies had been captured while the slain were untold.

The Germans pursued across the Baltic, took Przasnysz February 26, and were checked by the border fortifications, and on March 1, the Russians captured Przasnysz after a considerable victory nearby.

The Russians did a little further to clean up the score on March 22 when Przasnysz fell after a heroic defense and 119,000 prisoners were marched off by the Czar. The next day, however, the Germans announced the recapture of the seaport Memel, in the extreme northeastern corner of their territory, which had been seized in a Russian raid. To prevent a similar move the Germans proceeded to send bodies of cavalry into the adjacent Russian Baltic provinces where they found little opposition.

Meanwhile, the Germans were concentrating for the greatest offensive movement of human history. It started April 30, when Field Marshal von Mackensen exhibited something new in warfare—a battering ram of heavy artillery.

Three thousand guns pounded the Russian lines at Gorlice, northern Galicia, for three days and nights and then the German bayonets swept all before them. On and on they went, making steady progress day by day, forcing the Russians to retreat in disorder from the Carpathian passes to avoid the threat in their rear, capturing fortress after fortress.

The Russians, lacking ammunition for their guns, lacking even rifles and sometimes fighting with sharp-edged sticks, made a desperate resistance and were killed and captured by the ten thousand.

Przemysl was recaptured June 4; Tarnograd June 19; Lemberg June 22 and then the Germans turned from east to north. Lublin fell July 30. With Teutonic armies closing in on Poland from the north, west and east, the capital, Warsaw, fell August 5, and the next day the stronghold of Ivangorod.

On August 8, the Germans arrived at Serock; on August 9 at Lomza; on August 12 at Siedlice; on August 17 at Kovno; on August 19 at Novo-Georgiosk; on August 23 at Ossowice; on August 25 at Brest-Litovsk; on August 28 at Olita; on September 3 at Grodno. On September 1, German announced she had taken 1,000,000 prisoners since May 2.

The debacle unseated the Grand Duke Nicholas as commander-in-chief of the Russian armies. On September 8 the Czar sent him to the Caucasus and assumed command in person.

Still the Teutons pressed on. The second line of Russian fortresses proved as easy to them as the first. On September 15 they took Pinsk and on September 19 Vilna. In the vicinity of the latter city a battle was fought vast enough to stand out even in this succession of major engagements. For several days it seems that the Russian armies had been encircled, but with a burst of elan the Czar's men smashed through the iron circle and for the most part escaped.

Not until they had reached the line of the Dvina river and had established a great siege wall right across Russia with the center based on the Pinsk marshes and the south end on the Stripa did the Teutons stop.

Then they turned their attention to another field. Serbia had thrown out the Austrians twice. She barred the way to the Turks, who could supply their allies with some foodstuffs, copper and cotton, while themselves needing arms and ammunition.

On October 7 an irresistible invasion of Serbia started. The expedition consisted principally of artillery, with a relatively small proportion of infantry. Its task was rendered easy by the attack of Bulgaria on Serbia from the flank. Seizing the present as an opportune moment to realize his ambitions, Czar Ferdinand invaded his neighbor at three points October 11 and was soon able to raid almost across the harassed little country.

Belgrade fell to the Austro-Germans October 10 and ten days later the Bulgarians cut the Nish-Salonika railroad. The Serbians fought desperate rear-guard action. They died by thousands. There was never one single great Serbian defeat, but the constant pushing back meant enormous losses.

Meanwhile the French and British had come to the assistance of the Serbians with small forces. They landed at Salonika October 4 and on October 18 attacked Strumitza, Bulgaria. On October 14, Greece renounced the treaty by the terms of which she was bound to come to Serbia's assistance against Bulgaria. Even Great Britain's offer of the island of Cyprus was unable to tempt her from her neutrality.

Every day showed progress for the Teutons and the Bulgarians. Krupnik fell October 24 and Uskub the next day. On October 26 the Bulgarians and Teutons effected a junction and on November 1 the arsenal of Kragujevac fell.

On November 22 the Serbians began to retreat over the border into Montenegro and on November 29 Germany proudly announced the successful completion of her Serbian campaign.

Serbia was a desert inhabited by women and children. The forlorn manhood of the little nation withdrew into the mountains of Albania and Montenegro, where their enemies continued to press them.

On December 6, the Bulgarians attacked the French and British in Serbia with great energy and the latter, after inflicting severe losses, were obliged to withdraw to Salonika, which they fortified strongly.

The fighting in the west of the year was of a sanguinary but inconclusive character. The first trick went to the Germans when on January 14 they took advantage of a freshet which cut the French communications to drive the French across the river Aisne at Soissons with heavy loss. On January 17 the Germans estimated that the Allies had lost 150,000 in recent futile offensives on the west front.

On April 20 the British at great cost took hill 60 in Flanders, but it proved a victory which they could not follow up. On April 24 the Germans let loose great quantities of asphyxiating gas upon the Allies north of Ypres. The "Princess Pats," a Canadian regiment in which were many Americans, was almost annihilated. But after several villages had been lost the Kaiser's troops were checked.

In June the French made a successful attack north of Arras, capturing the Labyrinth June 23; but the iron men of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria held their lines, which were only dented.

It was September before the Allies were ready to try another great offensive. Then Joffre directed at least a million shells upon the German lines in the Champagne in a tremendous three-day bombardment. The German first and second line trenches were leveled. When the charge came the French were able to capture 25,000 Germans and take about 16 square miles of territory, but the third German line held firm.

Simultaneously the French attacked in Artois and the British in Flanders. The British bungled, as usual, and after breaking the German lines at Loos, they left their gallant storming parties unsupported and the Germans in a counter attack were able to regain most of the lost trenches. Both the French and the British boasted of a victory in this September battle, one of the greatest of all time, making Gettysburg look small; but the Germans asserted their enemies' loss was greater than their own and pointed to the practically unchanged siege line.

What the higher British authorities thought about it was shown in the second week of December when Sir John French was recalled and Sir Douglas Haig given his post as commander-in-chief in France.

On January 6, Italy called 3,000,000 men to the colors and on May 21 war for the conquest of "Italia irredenta" was declared on Austria. The Italians occupied Montefalcone June 8 and Gradisca June 10. Then they assailed the immensely strong Teuton positions in many places with great gallantry and doggedness. Losses were heavy on both sides. So far the invaders have not shown much progress, although Goertz seems about to fall into their hands.

On February 21 and succeeding days a great Franco-British fleet tried in vain to force the Dardanelles and open a path of supplies to Russia. On March 5 the Allies landed 100,000 men at the Dardanelles in the face of a frightful fire which made this one of the most gallant exploits of the war. Once ashore the Turks checked them on the steep hills. Later the Allies landed at points on the west shore of Gallipoli, but here, too, they were unable to penetrate more than a few miles from the shore.

A strong expedition from British India drove up the Tigris river into Mesopotamia, won a victory at Kut-el-Amara and pressed on to about a dozen miles of Bagdad. Here the reinforced Turks fell upon them, inflicted a great slaughter and forced a disastrous retreat.

In the colonies the Germans at the end of the year still hold east Africa and part of their Kamerun colony. Premier Botha, of South Africa, after putting down a Boer insurrection, had reduced the last German stronghold in southwest Africa.

On the sea, the outstanding feature of the year was the German attempt, beginning February 18, to blockade Great Britain by submarine. With trawlers, aeroplanes, swift motor boats, nets and ingenious scientific contrivances to locate the position of the undersea craft, the British were able to hold the Germans to minor successes, compared to the enormous tonnage attacked. The Von Tirpitz submarine campaign may be declared definitely a failure, and seems to have been abandoned.

In other quarters submarines were more successful. At the Dardanelles battleship after battleship of the Allies fell victim to the unseen foe, until the great fleet was forced to withdraw to a well-guarded harbor, leaving only swift craft to roam the infested Mediterranean.

From the American point of view the chief event of the year in the war was the sinking of several passenger ships by Teuton submarines and the consequent loss of about 150 American lives. This brought us perilously near to a break with Germany and has had still more serious consequences with Austria.

In German newspapers the place of prominence has been taken from German victory by the German dinner table. Food scarcity in the first winter brought the bread card and war bread. On January 27, the German government took over control of all corn, wheat and flour.

The first winter was weathered well, but last summer the crops, except potatoes, were a failure in the central empires. As a consequence, the poorer classes in Germany are complaining bitterly that, while not starving, they go insufficiently nourished.

"We are victorious, but we hunger!" cry the German mothers.

TO MAKE AN AMERICAN
OUT OF A JAPANESE GIRL.

To Demonstrate Comparative Value of Environment and Heredity.

Fuji Adamson has deep dark eyes, a wee bit aslant. She has a typical round Japanese baby face.

She doesn't know yet that she is to demonstrate the comparative value of environment and heredity. Even if it were explained that her pure Japanese blood and American training were fighting it out in her small body she would fail to comprehend.

Fuji is the little daughter of a Japanese gardener on the Villanova (Pa.) estate of Mr. and Mrs. William Baeder Adamson, whose charms won her father's employer. Her parents finally consented to permit Mrs. Adamson to take charge of her upbringing.

She is four now. Except for differences of feature, she could not be distinguished from any of the American children she plays with. She is vivacious and healthy. She speaks English from choice and a little French and German on request. Her foster mother is giving her a course in gymnastics which is expected to make her tall.

Fuji is destined to matriculate at Bryn Mawr. When she reaches her majority she will be given her choice between America and Japan. Mrs. Adamson has no fear of the outcome.

"Why should I?" she asks. "The child has become Americanized, and in a few years not a trace of the Japanese characteristics will be left."

SENDS FATHER TO LIFE BANISHMENT

Man Who Shot Wife Given $9,000 to Leave Town.

SERVED NINE YEARS IN JAIL

Was About to Start Court Proceedings to Obtain Share of Estate of Woman He Killed When Son Offered Him Money to Leave Vicinity—Agreement Binds Both Parties.

"To be forever rid of the danger of humiliation of meeting his father in or near his home" Harold Guy Mott of Far Rockaway, N. Y., has agreed to give his parent, Dr. Samuel S. Guy, who killed his wife in 1907, $9,000 to quit that place forever and relinquish all claim to his wife's estate of $200,000.

"As a matter of fact," said young Mott, "I consider $9,000 a cheap price for knowing that I will never see my father again. I have changed my name to Mott so that the name of Guy may be used as infrequently as possible."

Dr. Guy was a prosperous dentist, politically and socially prominent, when he shot his wife in her home. He was indicted, convicted of first degree manslaughter and sentenced to nine years in Sing Sing.

Released After Nine Years.

He was released from prison last year and immediately consulted former District Attorney George A. Gregg on a claim of a share in his wife's estate. As she died intestate he was entitled to the life use of her real estate, but her family lawyer instituted an injunction proceeding, contending that it would not be equitable to permit a man to profit by a capital crime of which he had been convicted.

Leander E. Faber of Jamaica was named to take testimony, but will never be called upon to make a report for the boy and his father met and the latter agreed to the terms of his exile.

Five thousand dollars was paid in cash, and the remainder is to be settled in four yearly installments of $1,000 each.

"It is probable," said the family's lawyer, "that we should have won our case in court, but young Mott preferred to get rid of his father at once, and he made a very satisfactory arrangement."

Dr. Guy has started for the Pacific coast. When he returns he expects to buy and live upon a farm in Rhode Island.

BRITISH BIRTH RATE FALLS.

Forty Thousand Fewer Babies a Year in Ninety-six English Towns.

The tremendous influence of the war in checking the normal growth of the population is shown conclusively by the statistics which have just been compiled for ninety-six of the largest towns in the United Kingdom, says the New York World.

The total decrease in the number of births in these places is at the rate of 40,000 annually, while the increase in deaths is 50,000 a year, the comparison being made with the year 1913.

In the county of London the decrease in births during the last thirteen weeks, compared with the corresponding period of 1913, is over 3,000, while the increase in deaths is 1,270. Greater London, including what the registrar general calls the "outer ring," shows a total decrease of 33,000 births and an increase in the number of deaths of 20,000, making a net decrease in the population of 53,000 compared with the year 1913.

These figures are counted on to stimulate more than ever the public and private effort now being concentrated on the problem of infantile mortality.

There has been a marked increase in the deaths among persons over fifty years old. Many deaths among these elderly people are caused by their inability to go to warmer climates, as they usually have done, during the cold weather.

Tuberculosis, heart disease and cerebral hemorrhage, augmented by worry and excitement, caused 400 deaths in London during the week ending Nov. 20—an increase of more than 100 compared with the same week of last year.

STUDENTS STUDYING SLANG.

Power and Literary Significance of Talk of the Street Analyzed.

"Neologism—The use of a new word, words or meanings, especially the use of an expression not yet sanctioned by conventional good usage." (Webster.) Some University of Chicago freshmen have just organized a neological club.

Father will get his monthly epistle from Willie like this: "Dear Pop—I just grabbed my pen in fist to shoot you a couple of spasms and bid you to be for the love of Mike lenient when it comes to dishing out this week's life preserver."

The club will study the origin of words, the power of slang and the literary significance of new and popular phrases. Its motto is taken from Dean James Weber Linn's "Essentials of English Composition." It reads, "The idea behind slang is a good one—a search for the power and suggestiveness of words." John M. Steadman, instructor in freshman English, is the club's faculty adviser.

ODD PERSONALITIES OF 1916 SENATORS

MEN FROM ALL WALKS OF LIFE

INCLUDED—MANY NEW ONES AND SOME "COME-BACKS" IN INTERESTING VARIETY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The rise of the curtain on the sixty-fourth congress has brought an interesting assortment of new senators before the national eye. The X-ray of public inspection has revealed some curious personalities among the newcomers.

Senator Paul O. Hastings, Democrat, who has taken the seat of "Uncle Ike" Stephenson, of Wisconsin, has already been dubbed "the senate Billiken" because of his peculiar resemblance to the Chinese image of luck. It is unnecessary to describe Hastings further than to say he looks like a Billiken, even to the extent of wearing a Billiken's perpetual smile. Anyone could pick him out of a crowd with this simple cue. Hastings and his colleague, "Pompadour Bob" LaFollette, give the Wisconsin representation in the senate a strikingly distinctive appearance.

Hastings quit school when he was 16 and went to work as a clerk in a general store in Wisconsin. When he reached 29, ambition roused him and he decided to become a lawyer. He entered the University of Wisconsin and soon after was admitted to the bar. Twenty years later, he entered the United States senate.

Senator James D. Phelan, of California, looks enough like Senator James A. O'Gorman, of New York, to be his twin brother. They both wear the same "make-up"—high silk hats and luxuriant but well trimmed beards. Their size is strikingly similar. Phelan is one of the richest men in the senate. He has just purchased a fine residence in Washington for about a quarter of a million dollars and the capital is looking for social activity from the California senator's family. Before coming to the senate, Phelan went to Haiti at the request of President Wilson to investigate the charges against American Minister Sullivan. He first came into prominence as mayor of San Francisco, in which capacity he served several terms.

Warren G. Harding, who has taken the place of Theodore Burton, of Ohio, comes to the senate with a reputation for silver tongued oratory. He has a Bryanesque appearance and delivery, but he talks high tariff and kindred ideas which will classify him at once with the conservative element of the senate. Harding's personality commands immediate attention. He is a newspaper man, editor of the Marion, Ohio, Star, and he wants it understood that his senatorial functions aren't going to interfere with his writing occasional "pieces" for his paper.

Robert Broussard, of Louisiana, has just moved across the capital from the house to the senate. Like Oscar Underwood, he is pretty well broken to congresses, having served eight years in the house. The two most notable facts to be told about Broussard are that his ancestors were Acadians and were exiled to Louisiana by the British and that, though a Democrat, he always votes for a high protective tariff.

"Young Jim" Wadsworth, of New York, who has stepped into the spacious shoes of Elihu Root, comes close to nosing out Lake Lebo, of Tennessee, for the distinction of "new baby." Wadsworth was 38 years old last August. He has been a soldier, a Texas rancher, and speaker of the New York assembly.

Senator Beckham, of Kentucky, revealed so little of himself so far that he is being described as an enigma and a sphinx. His modest autobiography in the congressional directory tells, among other things, that he was a page in the Kentucky legislature in 1881 and 1882. Being a page in the legislature seems to be a senatorial requirement in Kentucky. He James proudly proclaims the most interesting fact about himself in his autobiographical sketch.

Senator Johnson, of South Dakota, has lived so much of his life upon the prairies that the vagaries of the capital corridors bewilder him. He is always getting lost in the big building. He either has to take a guide about with him through the capitol or stop at every turn and ask directions of an attendant.

Curtis, of Kansas, is an old-timer in both house and senate although he is classed as a newcomer. He lost his seat in the senate in 1912, but made a "come-back" in last year's election.

CHRISTMAS EVE AT M. E. CHURCH

CHILDREN AND GROWN-UPS ENJOY CHRISTMAS FUN AT THE DAYTONA BEACH METHODIST CHURCH.

The night before Christmas saw a glad house at the Methodist church of Daytona Beach on Seabreeze, when the regular Christmas service was held.

The program for the evening was followed along the usual lines of other years except for the main feature of the evening, the Bethlehem pageant. The members of the primary classes performed their part in the customary fun-making with much good will and after they had finished with their part of the program, the pageant was given.

A stage had been arranged over the platform for the costume play and about 8:30 the play began. It presented a scene in which a party of boys and girls of Bethlehem met on one of the main roads out of the city and resting by the way were telling ancient Bible stories when the shepherds came walking in the direction of the town following the star. They were stopped by the curious, awe-stricken boys and girls and had just completed their part of the story when the three wise men from afar entered the party with their servants, and told of their search. After some more conversation interspersed with several beautiful songs, the entire group left the stage singing "Come All Ye Faithful," and go in search of the manger babe.

The entire spectacle was one of great beauty on account of the fine array of Oriental costumes worn by those who took part and of the scenery and decorations.

Mrs. John J. Treadwell was instrumental in getting the pageant ready and making it a success and was ably assisted by C. Doty Hobart. Mrs. S. A. Young and Mrs. H. T. Parsons spent much time and labor in hunting up material for suitable costumes.

Every one in attendance was pleased with the pageant and felt that all of its participants deserved the compliments of the audience.

Daily Thought.
A wrongdoer is often a man that has left something undone, not always he that has done something.—Marcus Aurelius.

No Disputing It.
"Introspection," says a Boston minister, "is more profitable than retrospection." Of course it is. Retrospection merely reveals to the average man what a tattered fool he has been; introspection, if he is honest with himself, reveals to him what a blossoming jackass he is.—Houston Post.

Word of Caution.
"May I say just a word before you impose sentence?" asked the street railway magnate. "Well, what is it?" snapped the court. "Please remember, your honor, that you are imposing sentence and not granting me a franchise," he cautioned, fearing for the worst.—Buffalo Express.

How to Make Child Stop Crying.
It often happens that little children, especially those that are nervous or highly strung, are disposed to keep on crying when they get started. When you wish a child to stop sobbing get him to take a good drink of cold water. It almost always will stop the sobbing immediately.—Woman's Home Companion.

Between Two Fires.

On the Matrimonial Sea.
It is said of Nathaniel Bowditch, the distinguished mathematician and navigator, that he made it a rule of his life never to allow his wife to come into his presence without his expressing in some way his pleasure in her being there. And that, as another has said, was a very good rule of navigation.—Delineator.

Play a Bigger Part.
So many people drift into disappointment and dreariness because they are dissatisfied with the materials of life, and would like to play a bigger part than they are entitled to play. It is all a deep mistake, the worst mistake a man can make. It is not the impression a man makes on life that matters; it is the impression which he makes upon himself.—North American Review.

Cold Feet Cause Broken Sleep.
A common cause for restlessness at night is found in cold feet, and these should be especially guarded against with children who are prone to suffer in this way. Hot water bottles, carefully covered with felt so that there is no risk of burning the sensitive skin, should be resorted to when any tendency to cold feet exists, and in cases of chilly babies generally, cold is extremely bad for little children, and much broken sleep is due simply to it.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS ON THE PENINSULA

The holiday spirit was in evidence on all sides Saturday when the weather man presented the peninsula residents with one of the best gifts of all—a perfect day. A slight sprinkle early in the morning threatened to keep people indoors through the whole day, but failing to carry out its forebodings, the weather cleared away the clouds about 8:30 a. m.

After this time hundreds were out on the streets enjoying the balmy day of December and as many more took advantage of the warm day and spent the morning on nature's promenade, the incomparable ocean beach.

Local hotels were filled to their capacity with Christmas dinner guests who left in the afternoon filled to the brim with the enjoyable repasts. Many interior residents were at the beach for the day as well as Northern tourists.

This last Yuletide has been in the minds of many of the people here one of the most notable in several years on account of so many family reunions. College boys and girls came in for their vacations and scores of families were joined again Saturday night.

Warm weather was only allowed on the day of good cheer, as cold wintry winds lowered the thermometer to the chilling point early Sunday morning.

TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

The young men's and ladies' classes of the Daytona Beach Methodist church will hold a reception next Saturday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 in the basement of the church building on the corner of Seabreeze avenue and Peninsula drive.

Every stranger or tourist is cordially invited to attend the young people's reception and get acquainted with other tourists and home residents. This will be a chance to make friends which no one should miss.

Refreshments will be served by the young ladies and entertainment will be furnished by the young men.

Great Truths.
To live in the presence of great truths and eternal laws—that is what keeps a man patient when the world ignores him, and calm and unspooled when the world praises him.—Balzac.

Financial Genius.
Mr. Foghorn—Take out your debt in singing lessons! You're crazy! What kind of a voice do you think I have? Professor Squeale—Like a steam whistle, only worse. But when you've taken one lesson in your home the neighbors will raise the money and pay the debt.

Romance to Reality.
Girls are such sentimental creatures that it gives romance a rude jolt when the honeymoon is over and they see Algernon in his shirt sleeves, chopping up kindling wood out in the back yard.—Florida Times-Union.

The "SILENT SMITH"

—Model 8 shows what should now be expected of a typewriter.

Ball Bearing; Long Wearing

The success of the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriters has been due to the fact that the wants of the user have dictated its construction. The user has decided in favor of certain improvements now incorporated in Model 8. Among them are:

Silence of Operation—The most silent running efficient typewriter ever placed on the market. Absolute silence has been very nearly attained.

Decimal Tabulator—A help in billing and tabulating. There is no extra charge for this convenience.

Variable Line Spacer—Enables the operator to start on a given line and space from point of starting; also to write on ruled lines whose spacing varies from typewriter spacing. A great help in card work.

Faster Ribbon Feed—Insures new place of impact for each typeface.

Choice of Carriage Return—Upon special order the new left hand carriage return will be furnished in place of the right hand return.

All the important features of previous models have been retained—ball bearing carriage, typebars and capital shift, back spacer, key-controlled ribbon, removable platen, protected type, flexible paper feed and automatic ribbon reverse.

Write for New Catalog of Model 8. It will explain why the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter is a synonym for superior service.

ENTERTAINED AT KINGSTON HOME ON CHRISTMAS NIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McDonald, in addition to having a beautiful Christmas tree for the children, entertained a party of friends from this city at their home on Beach street, Kingston. The children received a number of presents, both pretty and useful, and had a very merry time. At the dinner in the evening, covers were laid for 12 and a bounteous and appetizing repast was enjoyed, the foundation of which was a 26-pound turkey. Following the dinner, the evening was very pleasantly passed at games and other forms of entertainment.

CHRISTMAS OBSERVANCE BY DAYTONA KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

The Christmas observance Saturday evening at Masonic hall by Oriental Commandery, No. 9, Knights Templar, of this city, was a very pleasant and interesting event, attended by between 50 and 75 members of the Masonic fraternity and their families. A program of entertainment had been arranged for the occasion and at its conclusion refreshments were served. A reception was held from 7:30 to 10:00 o'clock, the program being taken up at the latter hour.

GERMAN-AMERICAN XMAS CELEBRATION

BIG CROWD GATHERED IN THE ARCADE AUDITORIUM SUNDAY
EVENING TO ENJOY A REAL
GERMAN CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.

The Christmas celebration held by the German-American society Sunday evening in the Arcade auditorium was by far the largest and most important gathering of this kind ever held in Daytona.

The big hall, which has a capacity of about 2,000, was well on to being filled, 1,500 or more people being present, including children and adults, and they all had a great time.

In the center of the hall were arranged several handsome Christmas trees, prettily decorated and electrically lighted, and around them were ranged tables on which reposed fruits, candies and the presents provided for the children.

C. F. Burgman, acting as master of ceremonies, stated that the children present far outnumbered what had been expected, but an effort would be made to see that each child received some gift and this was done by drawing on business places in the vicinity for more toys, games, candies, etc. Mr. Burgman explained to the children that while Santa Claus was present, he could not supply them with the presents which many had written for through letters published in the Daily News, but that he had a small gift of some kind for each and all.

An interesting program of entertainment had been prepared, but was only carried out in part, owing to the growing restlessness of the many children present, who were principally interested in the distribution of the presents.

The program as it was given was as follows:

O Tannenbaum, by the audience.
Christ the Savior, recitation, Paul Sinhoff.

Holy Christmas Time, recitation, by Louis Hahne.

Oh du Frohliche Weihnachtsszeit, song, by Henry Grumpelt.

The Old, Old Love, piano solo, by Miss Julia Michaels, accompanied by Miss Mills.

Piano solo, by Mrs. Vedder.

Stille Nacht, by the members of the ladies' auxiliary of the German society.

I Wonder How the Old Folks Are at Home Tonight, by Miss Michaels and Miss Mills.

With the conclusion of the program of entertainment, the little folks were called up and marching in divisions, according to their ages, received the gifts provided for them, which consisted of Christmas stockings for the smaller tots, filled with candies, nuts and little toys, while the older children were given games and toys of various kinds, apples, oranges, etc. Santa Claus took a prominent part in both the program and the distribution of the presents, and the whole affair was very real to the children and very pleasing to their elders.

The German-American Christmas celebrations in the past have been very delightful events, confined, however, to the members of the society and their immediate friends, but this year it was proposed to extend the range of the entertainment and an invitation was extended to the public generally to be present and the response exceeded all expectations.

The auditorium presented an exceedingly bright and attractive appearance, with its lights and decorations and the great crowd of interested children and grown people, and a flashlight picture was made of the scene.

The lobby also had been made particularly attractive with a number and variety of potted plants and ferns provided for the occasion by Schulze & Obermaier, florists, who are located in one of the Arcade stores. The manager of the Loui Fruit company also rendered valuable assistance to those having the entertainment in charge.

The German-American society is to be congratulated on its resourcefulness in bringing the celebration to such a successful conclusion in the face of the fact that the children present more than doubled the number prepared for by the committee, for there were 600 or 700 children, possibly more, who were there for a remembrance from Santa Claus.

A collection was taken up during the evening for a family of children in very poor circumstances and this money was turned over to the ladies' auxiliary of the German-American society to be used to the best advantage for the children.

J. W. WILBUR TO HAVE OFFICE HERE

J. W. Wilbur, owner of Wilbur-by-the-sea, the pretty residential settlement on the peninsula south of Daytona, has arrived from Boston for the season. He has rented office room with Conrad & Oates and will maintain an agency in Daytona for the sale of residence sites at Wilbur.

Mr. Wilbur says that the country throughout has never been more prosperous than at the present time and he looks for a "big" season for Florida this year, especially the East Coast section. Mr. Wilbur is a traveler of renown but in his opinion there is no locality quite so pleasant for a winter home as the Halifax country.

Dr. O. G. J. Schadt arrived in this city Saturday night with a special Christmas party of 75 tourists. They came through from New York in private day coaches. The second section will arrive Thursday afternoon over the A. C. L. railway and will contain about 60 people. Another select party of 50 will come in over the Seaboard on Friday. Dr. Schadt will leave this afternoon for St. Petersburg, but will return to Jacksonville in time to meet the Thursday's party and come on with them. This is the doctor's seventh season in organizing and conducting select parties to Florida, so it means much to have him tell of the excellent prospects for a heavy influx of people this winter. Since September he has brought to the state over 900 people. While here the doctor spoke about the great generosity of Commodore Burgoyne in presenting the city with the Saracina band for the season. He says that the people of his parties are delighted with these open-air concerts by such an excellent musical organization. During the present season he has handed out over 500 picture postals of Daytona views. Dr. Schadt has a number of select parties which he will bring here during the season, the last of which will arrive on February 2. The doctor was busy in this city making arrangements for the accommodation of the various parties which he is bringing here.

DAYTONA ENJOYS IDEAL CHRISTMAS

All Daytona enjoyed an ideal Christmas. The combination of perfect weather and an unusually high-tide of Christmas spirit insured a happy holiday for both visitors and residents.

The character of the services in the churches was exceptionally interesting, and the choirs fairly outdid themselves in rendering particularly fine music.

The Sunday school entertainment of the First Baptist church was given on Christmas night, at 7:00 o'clock. Many were the interesting and instructive features rendered. Among the most notable were two religious plays entitled "The Voices of the Women" produced by the Philathea class and "Gifts for the King," by Miss Rosyland Otis' class.

A charming little story of a "white-gift Christmas" was the thread of the entertainment at the First Christian church. The exercises took place at 7:30 in the evening, December 24, and were attended by a goodly number of people.

The Rev. Father Robert Danworth conducted mass at 6:00, 7:00 and 10:30 o'clock on Christmas morning at the Catholic church. The Sunday school gave its pupils and guests a fine big tree at 4:30 p. m.

Mrs. Burdette Mills may be complimented upon her success in the management of the Sunday school exercises of the Methodist Episcopal church, which took place at 7:00 on Christmas night. The scholars were well trained, the singers showed exceptional talent and Mrs. Burdette Mills played the piano with much feeling and expression.

The Rev. Robert McKay conducted communion service at the Episcopal church at 7:30 Christmas morning, followed by a morning prayer and sermon at 10:30 o'clock.

The musical program deserves mention. The choir had evidently been well coached and threw itself into the spirit of the occasion with a vim.

DAYTONA IS INVITED TO JOIN EAST COAST CHAMBER COMMERCE

BIG MEETING PLANNED TO TAKE PLACE IN MIAMI JANUARY 11
WITH MANY DELEGATES PRESENT.

"The Florida East Coast counties for a greater East Coast!"

This is the slogan of the Florida East Coast Chamber of Commerce which is now planning for a great convention January 11, in the city of Miami. It is felt that in a great variety of ways the interested counties can pull together through their commercial and civic organizations in the direction of progress.

Organizations of the East Coast entitled to membership in the organization have been invited to be represented through a bulletin sent out by Secretary-Treasurer Horace W. Scott, of Miami. The following is his letter in general:

To all civic, industrial and commercial organizations in the eastern counties of Florida.

Gentlemen: Let's get together and pull together to make the East Coast of Florida the "empire" that it should be.

On September 17, last, the Florida East Coast Chamber of Commerce held a convention in Lake Worth, to which all the civic, industrial and commercial organizations in the eastern counties were invited to send delegates for the purpose of forming a permanent organization.

The object of the organization is to bring the East Coast cities and towns into closer relationship with each other for their mutual benefit.

This section has greater possibilities than any other part of the state; and these possibilities can be best realized and developed by the close relationship and united efforts of all.

The Florida East Coast Chamber of Commerce is to be composed of all the civic, industrial and commercial organizations in the counties of Nassau, Duval, St. Johns, Clay, Putnam, Orange, Osceola, Volusia, Brevard, St. Lucie, Palm Beach, Broward, Dade and Monroe. Each organization belonging to the main body is entitled to one delegate and one vote at the quarterly conventions, which meet at a place designated by the delegates at the previous convention. The business of the organization is carried on by the regular officers and a board of directors, one from each county, and the various committees. The membership dues are $4 per year or $1 per quarter in advance for each civic organization.

Your body cannot afford to be left out of this splendid organization—one which is destined to become a great factor in the upbuilding of the entire eastern part of the state.

The next convention will be held in Miami on January 11, 1916. Many important matters will be taken up at that time and a number of noted speakers will be present. The people of Miami are planning to entertain the delegates and visitors royally, and a rousing good convention is promised.

ALLIES ALMOST FORCED STRAIT

Another Attack by Fleet Would Have Won Dardanelles.

FORT HAD ONLY 17 SHELLS

Correspondent Says Turks Were All Ready to Evacuate, Predicting "They Are Sure to Get in Tomorrow"—British Information System Blamed For the Failure.

Had the allied fleet returned to its attack upon the Dardanelles batteries on the day following the great bombardment of March 19 the waterway to Constantinople would surely have been forced, in the opinion of several artillery officers of the defense works near Techanek-Kale, expressed to a correspondent who has just reached Vienna.

One of the principal batteries, it appeared, had for three of its large caliber guns just four armor piercing shells each when night ended the tremendous effort of the British and French fleet. For the fourth gun five shells were left, making for the entire battery a total of seventeen projectiles of the sort which the aggressors had to fear. What this meant is best understood when it is considered that the battery in question was the one which had to be given the widest berth by the allied fleet.

Warned to Get Ready.

During the evening of March 18 the correspondent talked with several artillery officers from this battery.

"Better pack up and be ready to quit at daybreak," said one of them.

"Why?" was asked.

"Oh, they are sure to get in tomorrow."

Then the officer stated his reasons. He was so certain that the British and French would return in the morning to finish their task that there was no question in his mind as to the propriety of discussing the ammunition matter.

"We'll hold out well enough to make them think that there is no end to our supply of ammunition," he said. "But it can't be done if they go about their work in real earnest. With our heavy pieces useless they can reduce the batteries on the other shore without trouble. The case looks hopeless. You had better take my advice."

Following the advice thus given, the correspondent rose early next morning and packed his few belongings, keeping meanwhile a watchful eye on the tower of Kule Sultanie, where the flag, showing that the allied fleet was near, was usually hoisted. But the morning passed, and still the danger signal did not appear. Evidently the allied fleet was not inclined to risk more such losses as those of the previous day, when the Bouvet, Irresistible and Ocean went down and five other ships were badly damaged. Yet even with the eleven remaining ships, it appears from the Turkish admissions, the Dardanelles could have been forced on March 19.

Damage Only Slight.

The correspondent visited several of the batteries during the day. The damage done the day before was slight indeed, consisting mostly of large earth displacements from the parapets and traverses. Four guns were temporarily out of commission, but the general shortage of ammunition made these pieces negligible quantities anyway.

Although the British information system in this field of operations was efficient, it must have failed in this instance, for it seems certain that with seventeen shells the battery in question would have been easily disposed of, a channel could have been made through the mine field, and the way to Constantinople would have been open.

All this was realized in the Turkish capital. The court made arrangements to transfer to Eshishehr, Anatolia, and the German and Austro-Hungarian embassies were ready to leave for this ancient seat of the Ottoman government. The families of many German officers in the Turkish service left Constantinople. In short, everybody understood that a calamity was pending. What its exact nature was but a few knew.

Today the Dardanelles forts have all the ammunition they can use, and the position has been so improved and strengthened generally that it is thought probable that to force the strait would take more ships than the allies possess.

1,447,623 TONS OF SHIPPING DESTROYED.

The semi-official Berlin News agency says:

"It is stated on competent German authority that since the beginning of the war to the end of November last 734 enemy ships with a tonnage of 1,447,623 tons were destroyed."

"Of these, 568, with 1,079,482 tons, were destroyed by submarines and 93, with 94,709 tons, by mines."

"Of the ships destroyed 624, with 1,231,944 tons, were British, which means a loss of 5.9 per cent of the total British tonnage."

WANT GERMAN WIVES.

California Youths Are Ready to Go to Fatherland to Marry.

An American who signs himself L. Merritt Smith writes to the Vossische Zeitung, a Berlin paper, from Healdsburg, Cal.:

"We are twenty young men, all strong, healthy and of good character. Recently we read in the San Francisco Chronicle that the German government intends to induce foreigners to settle in Germany after the war, to marry German girls or widows and to aid in the reconstruction of the empire."

"Nineteen of my friends and myself are willing to respond to this call, and we desire to make the acquaintance of nice, respectable girls or widows under thirty years, who know some English and are not without means. Some of us would like to become farmers in Germany if they could find wives who possess the necessary capital. Others desire to establish themselves in some trade. We are honest and sincere and mean business. Our desire is to marry good German women, as we are lonely here and cannot find life partners because we are not wealthy."

"We will be greatly indebted to you if you publish this letter and also turn it over to other German newspapers. Photographs of ourselves and references will gladly be sent. In conclusion I want to state once more that our offer is sincere. With ladies who only want to flirt, we do not wish to correspond."

Some Truth in This.

"Ef some men," said Uncle Eben, "sot up as late o' nights thinkin' as dey does playin' cards dey'd go an' tell de doctor dey had insomnia."

Efficiency.

The truly efficient man is so much of a unit, so absorbed in his vocation, that the self-consciousness due to self-analysis, which eats up strength, is unknown to him. If a fellow does a thing well he is caught in the arms of a joy that takes his mind away from himself; if badly, he becomes corroded by anxiety.—Bishop Brent.

Robert Roedel and family, of 150 North Ridgewood avenue, returned from Cuba Sunday.

Dr. Elliott Paxson, a well-known chemist of New York City, arrived in Daytona Sunday by automobile, and will spend the season at the Magnolia hotel.

Mrs. E. P. Woodbury and daughter, Miss Elsa Woodbury, arrived, as expected, Christmas eve and joined Col. Woodbury and Murray at the Ridgewood hotel.

HOME GROWN TURKEYS. MUNROE & STEVENS, PHONE 127-BLUE. 19-5t

C. A. Ruth, formerly of this city, but now living at West Palm Beach, came up from that place Christmas day to visit friends in Daytona and vicinity until the following day.

N. A. Johns, who runs the auto livery at the Ridgewood hotel, has purchased the bungalow formerly occupied by J. H. W. Hawkins, and will move it to his lot on Seaman place, where he will live this season.

Mrs. E. Dillingham is reported to be doing very well, following a serious operation at Dr. Bohannon's hospital on Friday. The success of the operation for her relief is a matter of gratification to her many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Robson went over to Lake Helen Christmas day and visited Mrs. Robson's brother, John B. McGill, and wife, at their home in that place until Sunday afternoon, when they returned by automobile by way of DeLand.

O. A. Erdman, of Denver, Colorado, arrived Christmas at the Magnolia hotel, where he joined Mrs. Erdman, who is a season guest there. Mr. Erdman, who is a very successful attorney, is also interested in Sunday school work, and made a short address to the pupils at the Congregational church Sunday.

James B. Hause arrived Friday evening from Springfield, Ohio, and joined Mrs. Hause and daughter, Mrs. A. G. Gillette, and baby, who came earlier and opened the Tea Cup Inn at 225 South Palmetto avenue. Mr. Hause will probably remain here for the season. He has spent several seasons at St. Petersburg, but is making his first visit to Daytona and expresses himself as very much pleased with the city so far as he has seen it.

*The Daily News has a handbag which owner can have by identifying and paying for this notice.

Clarence W. Bethel arrived Friday evening from New York to spend Christmas with his parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bethel and Master Robert Bethel, at their home, the Bethel apartments, on North Ridgewood avenue. He will be at home for only a few days, being obliged to leave Wednesday on his return North. Mr. Bethel says he hears much talk of Florida and anticipates a heavy travel South after the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Robinson and daughter, Miss Mae Robinson, of Springfield, Ill., came to Daytona the middle of last week and are located for the season in apartments in Mrs. W. W. Armstrong's residence, 60 Cypress street. Mr. Robinson and family have a number of friends and acquaintances here among the members of the Illinois contingent and are not strangers in Daytona, having been here during the seasons of three and four years ago.

G. Lyman Winn, of St. Louis, Mo., who recently visited his aunt, Mrs. E. A. Lapp, and family at their home on Fairview avenue, returned to the city Friday afternoon from Miami to spend Christmas with them, leaving today for Tampa and other points in the South before returning home. Mr. Winn is South on a business trip, being engaged in the service department of the Wagner Electrical company of St. Louis. He has been in the employ of the company for 16 years, but this is his first visit to Florida.

Among the many beautiful private Christmas trees in Daytona this year the family tree at the winter home of Mrs. E. P. and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Intemann on North Beach street probably is the most elaborate as it has been in other years. The lighting of the tree is exceptionally fine and the decorations are profuse and dazzling in their beauty and variety. Some of these decorations have been preserved for the past 25 years or longer, new ones being added from year to year. Mr. Intemann makes a point of having a balsam fir sent from New York for the tree.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Wigton, of Detroit, Mich., who were here for a time earlier in the season, came up from Eau Gallie by train last week to spend Christmas with Mr. Wigton's mother and sister, Mrs. M. E. and Miss Julia C. Wigton, at their home on Rowland Place. They had planned to come to Daytona in Mr. Wigton's boat, the "Gray Way," which he built at Eau Gallie last winter, but the boat was not quite in readiness for the trip. When the "Gray Way" is in readiness they will cruise in her to Miami and other points on the lower East Coast before bringing her to Daytona.

MOSSDALE LOCATED ON ENTERPRISE BRANCH

Mossdale, the postoffice recently established in Volusia county, has been located. It is situated about three miles east of Enterprise, on the Enterprise-Titusville branch of the Florida East Coast railway.

No mistake about it. That concert at the Congregational church Tuesday evening, December 28, will be altogether the greatest attraction during Daytona's holiday season.

DOCTOR KUEHNEMANN PLEASED WITH CITY

Dr. Eugene Kuehnemann, the eminent German professor, who came to Daytona Thursday afternoon of last week as the guest of the German-American society and addressed the members of that society in the evening on the European war, departed Christmas day for Mobile, Ala., New Orleans, La., and other points included in his lecture tour. While here he was a guest at Schmidt's hotel and on Friday was entertained by Capt. C. A. Young and others who gave him an opportunity to see Daytona and points of interest in the vicinity, including a visit to New Smyrna by automobile and a spin on the ocean beach. Dr. Kuehnemann, in conversation with a Daily News representative, just prior to taking his departure, said he was very pleasantly impressed with Daytona and greatly appreciated the courtesy extended to him by members of the German-American society and other citizens.

GUY METCALF SEEMS TO BE VINDICATED

REMOVED WEST PALM BEACH POSTMASTER EXONERATED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY—CASE TO BE REOPENED.

Must satisfaction is reported from West Palm Beach over the result of the federal grand jury investigation of the charges preferred against Guy Metcalf, on which he was removed from the postmastership of that city. Mr. Metcalf has been completely exonerated of the charge of embezzlement; and the political scheming by which he was removed from office promises to be brought to light. For many years Mr. Metcalf has been a leader in progressive politics of Florida, and his yeoman service for progressive measures has made him numerous enemies, but even these enemies of the fair-play kind resent the methods taken to provide a pie-couner opportunity for his opponents. Following the exoneration of Mr. Metcalf, the appointment of J. D. Argyle, suggested as his successor, has been held up by the federal postal authorities for further consideration, and if politics in Washington does not control the situation too completely, Mr. Metcalf's reappointment will be made.—Miami Metropolis.

Kindness.

The spirit of unwearied good will is the great lifting power of the world. When we can do nothing else to right wrongs, lessen burdens or mend life's sore places for weary feet, we can at least be kind—kind in face, voice and deed. And oh, how many dark places would brighten, heavy loads grow light and new courage come to the heart if only simple kindness were the rule of life!

Havana's Water Supply.

For more than three hundred years the water supply of the city of Havana has been carried through an open ditch. In 1592. The supply originated from the springs of the Almendares river, some miles south of the city, and this source still provides an adequate flow. The springs, which have since been developed, number 400 and are surrounded by a heavy wall of masonry and are constantly under military guard. An aqueduct has long since been planned to carry the water to the city.

Asbury O'Neil, a Waycross negro, was struck by the delivery automobile of the Sanitary bakery of Daytona Beach this morning at about 10:00 o'clock while riding his wheel on Second avenue, just west of Ridgewood avenue. Eye witnesses of the accident say that the driver of the car was in no way to blame, as O'Neil fell directly in front of the car which passed over both man and bicycle. Both automobile and bicycle rider were going east on Second avenue at the time and as the negro passed the car his wheel slipped and threw him before the car. The extent of the negro's injuries could not be ascertained. The driver of the car and a negro who was with him picked up the injured man and saw that he had medical attention.

After spending Christmas with relatives in Daytona and Daytona Beach, Ernest L. About six miles out from Daytona they collided with a Ford car occupied by a man and lady giving as their names S. A. Shackard and wife, of Deland. The Ford skidded in loose sand, striking Johnson's Buick to the right of the left front spring, tore in two the frame, bending the front axle, demolishing one tire and throwing Mrs. Johnson against the windshield with sufficient force to smash it. Mrs. Johnson received a small cut over the left eye and another on the cheek. None of the other occupants of either car were injured.
